“Global Sourcing – A Recession Survival Strategy”

FEATURED SPEAKER: Judy Huang, Founder & President, 889 Global Solutions, Ltd.

FACILITATED BY: Natalie Galbato, Senior Director Convergys

ABOUT OUR PRESENTER:

Judy Huang is the founder and president of 889 Global Solutions Ltd., a Columbus-based importing company with five China offices in Shanghai, Beijing, Guangzhou, Shenzhen, and Tianjin. Judy has more than 15 years of international business experience, specializing in China. Her extensive contacts in consulting, government, manufacturing and actual operation experience makes her of a unique value.

Judy has been quoted in Time, Newsweek, and Beijing Scene. She also contributed several business advisory articles to Business First publications and Supply Chain Management Review, a Reed Business Information's publication. She is in demand to sit on various committees related to international business. Judy was one of the 32 female executives to meet with President Bush in 2002 to discuss foreign trade issues. Recently she has been highlighted in the Columbus Rotary brochure, WELD calendar, and appointed as a member of Franklin University's Advisory Board.

Judy earned a BA degree in Business from Boston College and attended the MBA program of CIEBS in Beijing. She is fluent in Mandarin, Cantonese and English.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM:

In today's economy, manufacturers' demand in sourcing parts & components from China in order to cut costs and stay in business has been increasing tremendously. It is important for firms to understand thoroughly the benefits as well as difficulties arising from the sourcing process in order to develop and incorporate a low-risk sourcing plan into their supply chain systems.

Why consider sourcing from China? What are the challenges that one should expect from this sourcing process? What are the strategies to overcome these difficulties? What are some of the sourcing approaches and risk management strategies? These are some of the questions that will be discussed during Judy's presentation.

Attendance is limited to the first 20 ACG members registered.
