Mike Murray, President and CEO of FirstGroup America, talks about the ten year growth of FirstGroup America, which from its small beginnings has grown to a company ten times its original size – in just a decade.

Mike will talk about how the company grew through multiple acquisitions, organic growth and commercial opportunities culminating in the acquisition of a company twice its size.

He will also share some of the lessons learned in growing from a small company which was able to respond to challenges quickly and to move under the radar of many of its competitors to being the biggest transportation company in North America with a high profile and a wider portfolio.

Mike is a resident of Cincinnati for over 45 years and is proud to have the corporate headquarters based here in his hometown.
