

Accounting for Kids™

A time to give back

Dear Kim,

The tenth Accounting for Kids Day was a huge success and it could not have been as successful without the financial support and sponsorship of the ACG Cincinnati Chapter. We appreciate your generous contribution of $3,700. The resources of over 500 volunteers representing seventy-two organizations was critical in reaching over 1,700 students in sixty-nine classrooms and made this year's Accounting for Kids Day a huge success. Thanks to leaders like yourself and your organization, we were able to reach out to a record number of students and classrooms and together, we made a significant impact in promoting financial literacy in Cincinnati Public Schools.

With your support, Accounting for Kids, Inc. continues to evolve and develop. Recently, we have partnered with The Economics Center at the University of Cincinnati who has developed a plan named the Financial Education Initiative that aims to connect the financial education resources that exist in our community and providing local schools with an accessible set of resources for teaching financial education. Accounting for Kids, Inc. continues its commitment to provide financial education opportunities to our local children and hopes to guide our supporters to participate in the Financial Education Initiative. Together we are making a difference. (For more information, please visit <http://www.economicscenter.org/educator/fei>)

If you have any suggestions on how to improve Accounting for Kids Day, please call me at (513) 768-6798 or send an email to cfaulkner@cfscpa.com. I look forward to working with you again in next year's Accounting for Kids Day.

Sincerely,

Crystal L. Faulkner
Chairperson, Accounting for Kids, Inc.
