

James Dennedy
Chief Investment Officer
Arcadia Capital Advisors, LLC

Jim Dennedy currently serves as the Chief Investment Officer of a capital advisory and fund management company. The company focuses on making investments in small and micro cap public companies with an emphasis on serving as a catalyst for change to enhance shareholder value. Prior to his role with the Dayton Development Coalition, he was President, CEO and Chairman of Engyro Corporation. He was responsible for strategic direction, corporate and business development.

Mr. Dennedy also serves on the Board of Directors (Audit Committee Chairperson) of NaviSite, Inc. (NASDAQ: NAVI), a leader in Managed Applications and Managed Infrastructure for the Mid-Market. He serves on the Board of Directors (Audit Committee member) of I-many, Inc. (NASDAQ: IMNY), a software and services company providing industry leading solutions for contract lifecycle management. He serves on the Board of Directors (Governance Committee member) of Entrust, Inc. (NASDAQ: ENTU), a leading provider of solutions for securing digital identities and information worldwide.

In June 2007, Microsoft acquired Engyro. Prior to his role with Engyro, Mr. Dennedy served as Managing Partner of Mitchell-Wright, LLC, a capital management and corporate development company. Mitchell-Wright pursued an activist shareholder strategy making investments on behalf of itself and its capital partners. The projects pursued included take-private transactions, proxy contests, and private investments in public equities.

Prior to his affiliation with Mitchell-Wright, Mr. Dennedy served as President, divine Managed Services; Senior VP of Mergers and Acquisitions, divine, Inc.; Executive VP Venture Capital and Private Equity, marchFIRST, Inc.

In these posts, Mr. Dennedy led or participated in more than 40 merger/acquisition transactions and managed numerous turnarounds, workouts, mergers or corporate sale transactions and operational responsibilities for a 300 person, $60 million dollar facility-based managed hosting business.

Mr. Dennedy earned a BS in Economics from the United States Air Force Academy, an MA in Economics from the University of Colorado and an MBA from Ohio State University. In support of community activities, Mr. Dennedy serves on the Executive Boards of the Economics Department and MIS Department, Williams College of Business, Xavier University.